

Two CSUCI Administrators Selected for Leadership California

Camarillo, Calif., March 20, 2008-Leadership California has selected Amanda Quintero and Renny Christopher, both of California State University Channel Islands, as members of its 2008 California Issues & Trends Program (CIT). This is a prestigious, yearlong program for 60 women leaders from across the state of California.

Quintero is the Interim Associate Vice President for Research and Sponsored Programs, and Christopher is the Associate Vice President for Faculty Affairs at the University.

The California Issues & Trends Program provides focused development of women leaders, exposing them to critical public and private sector issues and enhancing their competitive knowledge on California from state, national and global perspectives. It connects women leaders from across the state with each other and with top decision-makers, thinkers and practitioners. It promotes creativity and innovation through the sharing of ideas and best practices. Graduates of the CIT are empowered to contribute more fully to California's vision of excellence and to the communities and companies in which they live and work.

Leadership California began in 1992 with a dream to inspire, inform, and advance women leaders who would influence California's future. It provides a critical pathway for successful women who care about advancement, achievement, and significance. These women are not only talking about change, but plan to be part of making it happen.
